CONVERSATIONS
DURING CONJUGAL
YOGA
DECEMBER 24, 86
F. Your sole is dirty.
E. Be happy it is not my soul
E. You do it well, but I cannot reach it.
F. You are not trying.
F. Yes beige, I want the ceiling beige.
E. Do you see the crack in the ceiling?
E. You don't want to see nothing.
F. If we paint it beige, the crack will not show.
F. You call this tranquility?
E. You want me to play cello like this?
E. Where are you?
F. Right here. Come over and hold my hand.
F. (Singing) Rock-A-Bye baby
E. Can't you sing something more mature?
E. You are a show off, you know I can't do this.
F. You are not trying.
E. Yes, if you try to do the headstand without my help.

F. If I stand on my head will you change your suit for the guests?
E. I think I hear the guests are arriving.
F. Yes, I can hear them too.
F. Put the new suit on and go down.
E. We have to do the lotus first.
E. You are my queen, but you call this a lotus?
F. (Has always the last word) Go hurry down !!!
F. Your sole is dirty.
E. Be happy it is not my soul.